Our Mission

New World Preparatory Charter School provides an exceptional education by using research-based strategies to raise academic achievement through academic rigor and relevance, personalization, focused professional development, and meaningful family engagement and collaboration with the larger community.

Our Scholars graduate with a strong academic foundation, an awareness of the needs of others, and the social and emotional readiness needed to succeed in high school and graduate from college.

Our Vision

We prepare students for higher education with a meaningful curriculum that challenges them academically while nurturing character development. Our Scholars gain the skills to inquire about the world around them by actively participating in their community.

Our Guiding Values

Why "Scholars"?

At New World Prep we call our students Scholars. We expect them to be self-motivated, engaged problem solvers who think outside the box, ask questions, and want to share and pursue knowledge, while learning from one another.

Become a Puma!

Applications for the 2027–2028 school year are due April 1, 2027. See "How to Apply" on page 7.

A Day at New World Prep

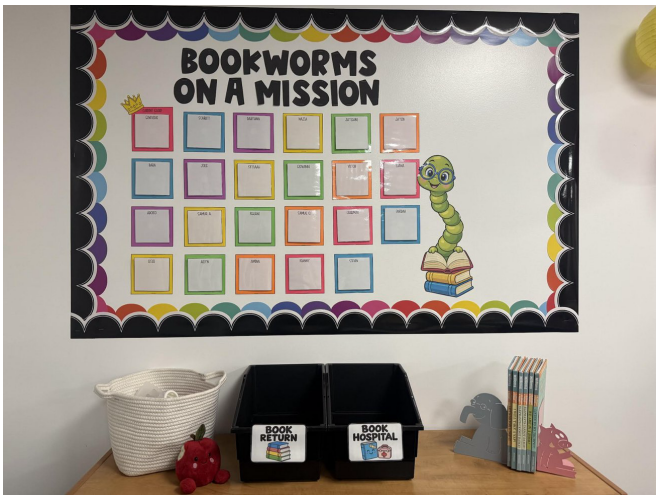

Our extended school day runs from 8:00 AM to 3:30 PM, with a 1:30 PM dismissal on Wednesdays. Wednesday afternoons give our teachers weekly time (1:30–3:30 PM) to plan together and receive additional instructional training.

Strong Core Classes

Scholars take double periods of English and Math every day, along with Social Studies, Science, and electives.

W.I.N. – "What I Need"

Every Scholar has one period a day dedicated to either enrichment or extra support in ELA and Math, so each child gets what they need.

Our "Bookworms on a Mission" reading wall celebrates every reader.

Electives

Scholars can explore their interests through electives in:

- Social Emotional Learning (SEL)
- STEAM
- Music
- Art
- Theater
- Technology
- Spanish
- Movement

Honors Courses in Math and Science

Scholars who meet the academic requirements and show personal readiness may request honors courses. These courses allow a Scholar to take the New York State Algebra and/or Life Science: Biology Regents exams.

A head start on high school

Regents exams allow a New World Prep Scholar to enter high school with two of the five Regents required to graduate in New York State. Scholars can then take advanced courses toward an Honors Regents Diploma and/or earn college credit during their junior and/or senior year of high school.

Support for Every Scholar

We believe every child belongs in the classroom and deserves the support to succeed. Our programs are built to meet Scholars where they are.

Special Education

Approximately 25% of our student population has an IEP. We strongly believe in including all students in general education classrooms, with access to the same curriculum and materials as their peers. New World Prep uses the ICT (Integrated Co-Teaching) model. Related services such as counseling, speech, occupational, and physical therapy are provided during the school day when possible, or through the student's district of residence or a private provider.

Families should know their child's IEP, appropriate educational setting, and needs before registering.

Multilingual Learner (MLL) Services

New World Prep is home to Scholars from a diverse array of cultures and backgrounds. For Scholars whose first language is not English, we provide:

- Push-in support: MLL teachers who join ELA and other core classes several times a week
- Targeted strategies: Methods designed to bridge the language gap, build key content knowledge, and develop academic language
- Extra help: Stand-alone and small-group support for Scholars at every level of English proficiency

Guidance and Counseling

Six guidance counselors serve our Scholars and families. Grade-level counselors each care for approximately 130 Scholars. Counseling is fully integrated with instruction and focused on college and career readiness, through individual planning sessions, responsive services, and school-wide support for academic, social, and emotional success.

Social-Emotional Learning

A strong focus on social-emotional learning supports emotional regulation, learning, and personal growth. Scholars build the habits and dispositions that make that growth possible through Morning Meeting in grades K–5 and our SEL program in grades 5–8.

Scholars thank the staff who help our school sparkle.

Every Scholar belongs here.

NWP = New World Prep | NYC = New York City | Dist 31 = Community School District 31

New World graduates consistently outperform New York State and Staten Island District #31 high school graduation rates each year.

New World Prep's student population is approximately 70% Hispanic and 28% African American, with 90% of our students being economically disadvantaged. When you compare these subgroups, New World Prep again shows a significantly higher high school graduation rate than New York City and Staten Island District #31.

New World Prep is proud that it develops the academic and personal skills for our Scholars to be prepared to be successful in their high school experience. We recognize the good work of our high school partners on Staten Island for their work in continuing to build and support the academic and personal skills of our Scholars in order for them to achieve success.
